Anyhow, he was responsible for what occurred in consequence of its use. There was not the slightest occasion for it on board a small ship like the Nemo, and it was very rarely justified anywhere, He (the Judge) must express his opinion of a reckless habit of that kind.

THE San Francisco Chronicle says :- It is now a little over two weeks since there appeared in the Chronicle an exposure of the wrong-doings of Leong Hang Tsang, in connection with the payment of several hundred thousand dollars due his countrymen for indemnity claims. For all of that time the affair has been the reigning sensation in Chinatown. On Wednesday the law firm of Mastick. Belcher and China Shippers Mutual S. N. Co.'s Mastick, as attorneys for Bock Hing and numerous other claimants resident at Liverpool, left Singapore on the 17th Portland, Or., filed a suit against the Chinese Consul-General in the United States District Court for $17,000. In a P. & O. Co.'s extra steamer Gwalior few days Uohen and Gaston, attorneys for score of Tacoma Chinese, will commence a similar suit for $10,000. Leong Hang Tsang expects to resign his position as Chinese Consul General very soon and to return to China. On Wednesday, in anticipation of an early departure, Tsang sent his wife and children and two family servants to China by the steamer Oceanic.

ONE of the strangest scenes that ever occurred in a court of law, says the Japan Mail. marked the close of the trial of the unfortunate mate (Hardmeat) of the Sakata Maru (who was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to five years' imprisonment for shooting one of the crew of the vessel a quarrelsome tipsy Japanese). A man of v. ry nervous temperament at all times, and auffering besides from the effects of a blow received some years ago, as well as from the reflections incident to his unhappy position. Hardmeat had comported himself all through the trial with great calmness, his auxious eyes only betraying the strain under which he was labouring. When asked by Mr Kenny after the verdict had been rendered, whether he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed on him, he answered quietly enough, 'Ne, Sir,' apparently entertaining still a mistaken estimale of the gravity of his position. But when the Judge had pronounced the words. five years' penal servitude, and the unhappy man realized his fate, his reason gave way to the shock. A noise of rending and splintering wood drew all eyes to the dock, where the prisoner a frenzied madman, crushed the sides of the box in which he had been standing, and burst out its panels in front. Turning then towards the rear of the Court-room where a silent andience had been listening to the proceedings. he plunged up to the railing which crosses at this point, waving his hands and kicking in a porfect whirlwind of madness. Roberts. the burly tunkey of the jail, was on him in a second or two, and Wright, usher of the Court, was very little later, but the madman for a space defied the efforts of bothstruggling strange to say in absolute silence. Borne down at length, his hands were drawn behind his back-two Japanese police officers assisting in this process-and handcuffed. Dr Eldridge had meantime ing at him afterwards, as he lay on the floor, the doctor declared him to be temporarily insane. A stretcher was sent for, but after a time the prisoner was allowed to rise to his feet and walked with his guards to the jail.

THE SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS'

INSTITUTE.

This is an institution which was opened recently in Queen's Road as a kind of Tomperance Cafe and Recreation Room for soldiers and sailors. At a meeting of the friends of the institution this afternoon, Rev. G. H. Bondfield, with whom the idea of establishing the Institute originated, gave an interesting sketch of its history and referred in hopeful terms to its prospects The Institute is situated at 18 and 20 Queen's Road East (the site of the old Temperance Hall), and consists of three large rooms, two of which are used as recreation and reading rooms, and contain a couple of or packages of ginger manufactured, ship- billiard tobles, while the other room is fitted up as a dormitory, in which beds can be provided for thirty or forty visitors. Tea and coffee and temperance drinks are supger manufactured by the plaintiff Ng U | plied at very moderate charges. The institution is intended to be self-supporting, and to judge by the results of the first two months of its existence, it promises to be very successful, as it certainly deserves to be. The management of the stiairs of the At a meeting of the Seatholders of Union Institute are almost entirely in the hands of members of the class which it is intended to benefit, and all the arrangements for carrying it on are of the most practical and economical character. After an ipspection of the premises had been completed by the party of friends of the Institute assembled this afternoon, Mr. building near the Tramway, and were Boudfield saids he thought it would be of instructed to report progress at a future interest to them if he put before them meeting as to contracts and any improve- briefly some details of the history, work ments proposed. In the starting of the institution private help had been liberally given, so that at the present moment they had a capital account of $:46, of which $60 was to be reserved for the purchase of a harmonium. There were many things that teams :might beadded still in the way of furnishing the rooms, and he hoped that the help from outside would still be continued for this purpose. The sale of refreshments and the charges for games would, he thought, if properly managed, muet all the expenses, but for additional furniture and other things they would have to look to the assistance of friends outside. There was a prospect of their being able to acquire another room in the building very soon and this would be a very valuable addition to their accommudation. In conclusion, Mr Bondfield thanked the visitors for their presence and expressed the hope that the Institute would be largely made use of and prove a great success.
